Grape Growers in California Clash Over U. S. Relief

Deputy Sheriffs Called Out in Row Over Acreage Guarantee

VIOLENCE THREATS

Organized Farmers Move Against Unorganized "Holdouts"

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Fresno county deputy sheriffs answered two calls for help today from farmers who alleged they were being threatened by men employed by farm groups to sign up grape acreage here to meet requirements of the Federal Farm Board.

The organized farmers were offered an advance of $20,000,000 by the Federal Farm Board on the condition that they placed under contract 85 per cent of the grape acreage in the county. The farm group is still several thousand acres short of meeting the requirement, and today's reported threats were alleged to have been made when individual farmers refused to sign.

Under the terms of the contract the Federal Farm Board would undertake to advance to the farmers $150 a ton for fresh grapes and $450 a ton for raisins.

Deputy sheriffs called to the scene declared there had been no acts of violence, and they made no arrests.

Neighbours Makes Plea For Health

Local Dentist Addresses Rotarians on Child Health Problem

A plea for a complete child health program in the schools of Hempstead county was made by Dr. A. J. Neighbours, dentist, to Hope Kiwanis club today. He pointed out that many pre-school children, and those in the first grade were given examinations in May of this year, but that other students had been overlooked. In this examination several children were found with preventable health impediments, which interfered with their own comfort as well as their progress in school.

Dr. Neighbours told how the school board of the city of Atlanta, Ga., reduced their total expense by a small percentage through cutting down the number of students who had to take some of their school work over again. Most of these "repeaters" originate in faulty health which prevents their progress in school, said Dr. Neighbours. Atlanta had reduced the percentage of repeaters from 32 per cent to 8 per cent through a complete child health program, carried out in all of the schools of that city. He told how about 80 per cent of deficiencies in child health were caused by mouth and throat troubles, mostly from troubles originating in the teeth. He asked that some complete plan of child health improvement be carried to all the schools of the county this next season, for the benefit of the individual as well as the community.

John Sidney Waddle entertained the Kiwanis club at the regular Thursday noon meeting at the Hotel Barlow. His two numbers, rendered in his rich, baritone voice, were greatly appreciated by the club. Mrs. C. P. Hildland played the accompaniment.

Plans were completed for the Kiwanis club visit to Piney Grove tonight, where a program will be given at the school house in that community at 8 o'clock. Members are to meet at the Barlow Hotel.

Harahan Viaduct Is Declared Free

Arkansas and Tennessee Are Linked by New Structure

MEMPHIS, July 10.—(AP)—Arkansas and Tennessee were linked by a new bond today noon with the opening of the Harahan viaduct as a toll-free structure.

Today's formal opening climaxed nine years of construction, disappointing engineering setbacks, and the expenditure of $1,500,000.

The first car over the structure from west to east was a machine owned by R. B. McCaa, of Jackson, Miss., a tourist returning home. The new structure replaces the tortuous old toll bridge which, however, will continue to be used by trucks and heavy vehicles until certain construction has been entirely finished on the new viaduct.

144 Are Killed in Maerode, Germany

Pocket of Gas Accidentally Struck—Fumes Engulf Mine

MAERODE, Germany, July 10.—(AP)—At least 144 persons lost their lives in an explosion at the Wenceslaus coal mine here. Eighty-one of the bodies have been recovered, most of them burned badly.

No hopes are held for the lives of those remaining in the mines. A gas pocket was tapped in the shaft and the fumes spread quickly throughout the mine. There was no chance for the men to escape and rescue work was made hazardous by the gas.

The explosion took both the workmen and the officials of the mine off their guard, as an inspection of the whole mine was made Sunday and it was thought to be safer than ever. Rescue workers found the bodies of the workmen with their tools still clutched in their hands. Wagon men were found dead beside their wagons and the lifeless body of the electrician pilot was found at his post.

Arkansas Boy Is Killed By Train

Body Identified an Hour Later By Mother Who Visits Morgue

JONESBORO, July 10.—(AP)—Muriel Williams, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Williams, was killed late Wednesday in the local railroad yards. Walking from behind the "Moore motor train" which had stopped on a track in front of the station, the boy stepped in the path of the passenger train and was struck. He was knocked about 10 feet and was dead before bystanders reached him.

The victim was not identified until nearly an hour later when his mother visited the morgue.

Negro Lives After Heart Is Pierced

Physicians Are Amazed By Such an Unusual Case

ANSONIA, Conn., July 10.—(UPI)—Doctors here were amazed by the case of James Bryant, husky negro brass band leader, who lived five months after he was shot through the heart in a street brawl.

Although he recovered apparently and returned to his grueling foundry employment, Bryant finally died of heart failure.

After he had been shot, the bullet pierced the edge of the heart, Bryant lifted his assailant over his head and dashed him to the ground. He walked three blocks before collapsing. The other man received a prison term.

Rain Gives Relief To Local Farms; State Suffering

Hope Visited by the First Heavy Rainfall Since May

LOCAL STORM ONLY

Rest of Arkansas Drought-Ridden, Says Associated Press

The first important rain to reach Hope since the middle of May, nearly two months ago, drenched the city and this section of Hempstead county about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Although it gave this section some much needed moisture for about 15 minutes, it was only a local shower, centering mainly between Hope and Texarkana. North of Hope, at Washington, little or no rain was reported. Other sections of the county obtaining various amounts of moisture.

From all indications, Hope had been the driest point in the county up to yesterday's rain, though Palmos and other southern points had been relieved by one or more thundershowers during June. Rain traveled all around Hope until yesterday, except for a slight drizzle one night several weeks ago.

Yesterday's rain will have a pronounced effect on the corn and truck crops that are now in a critical stage, according to local farmers.

The show girls were in a tableau scene representing wax figures coming to life.

Negro Held For Mistreating Youth

Identified In Court By Person Who Had Filed Charges

TEXARKANA, July 10.—(Elmer Evans, 18-year-old Arkadelphia youth, Wednesday morning identified a negro arrested at Hope as the man who robbed him and two other youths of about $15 and then forced him to submit to indignities early Wednesday morning about a mile north of Texarkana on the Fulton highway.

Evans identified the negro from among six who were arrested by police Wednesday morning. The youth told Deputy Prosecuting Attorney J. D. Cook, Jr., that he was positive in his identification.

The negro denied to officers that he had any connection with the holdup, but admitted being in the vicinity at the time.

He did not have any money or a pistol when officers arrested him at Hope, they said.

For more than two hours yesterday attorneys pleaded with the governor for a stay of execution, but the state executive steadily refused to grant their pleadings.

Seagle's gun is said to have been responsible for four men being killed during a bank robbery after which he escaped.

Illinois People Enjoy Beans Shipped From Hope

Mrs. H. B. Sanford, correspondent for the Star, who lives near Shover Springs, recently received a letter from a relative living at Plymouth, Ill., telling her of having bought some green beans at one of their local groceries. When the clerk opened the basket containing the beans a newspaper from Hope was in the top of it. The groceryman said that the beans received from this territory were the best obtainable, not knowing that the customer had relatives at Hope.

Many people who came by to see it while it was on display in this office said it was the largest they had ever seen.

The tarantula is a species of the spider family and its bite is very poisonous.

Berry Pickers Sure They Find The Lion

Upon Investigation It Is Found To Be Dead Colt

NEW BOSTON, Tex., July 10.—New Boston Wednesday was discussing another incident which proves that lion hunting in Bowie county, viewed at a distance, is a very laughable affair and at closer range, a very serious one indeed.

Two berry pickers on the Whaley farm Tuesday saw something under a bush and were positive they had located the temporary lair of a supposed lion who has been the object of two concerted hunts in the Red river bottoms.

Beating a practically instantaneous retreat, they hailed a passing doctor, who carried the message into New Boston. A dozen citizens armed themselves with guns of all descriptions and rushed to the scene.

Surrounding the bush with guns raised, they tossed a brick into the fastness. Nothing happened. Moving closer, they discovered that the lion was only a colt which had passed away, from unknown causes, in the thick.

Apportion Funds From Land Sales

Hempstead County Gets $224.18 As Its Share From Sale

LITTLE ROCK, July 10.—(AP)—State Treasurer Ralph Koonce Wednesday apportioned to counties funds derived from the sale of state lands and city and town lots, blocks and sub-divisions forfeited to the state for nonpayment of taxes during the year ending June 30, 1930.

Land sales for the period totaled $167,724, of which half or $83,826, was apportioned to the counties in which the lands are situated. The amounts credited to the counties go into the general revenue funds of counties, while the state's share goes to the permanent school fund.

Apportionment to the counties included the following: Crawford, $1,102.06; Faulkner, $653.14; Garland, $127.46; Hempstead, $224.18; Jefferson, $5,192.34; Miller, $1,853.39; Ouachita, $1,233.55; Union, $495.11; and Washington, $5,692.58.

City Scores Gain of 79 Persons In Complete Tally

Director of Census Gives Report to Congressman Parks' Office

GAIN IN TOWNSHIP

City Shows 25.3 Per Cent Increase in the Last Ten Years

The official revised population count gives Hope, 6,004, the director of census in the Department of Commerce reported today.

The information was given by the director to the office of Congressman Tilton B. Parks in Washington, D. C. and forwarded by telegram to Hope Mr. Parks is visiting here today.

Mr. Parks is visiting here today, but his office acted promptly when the information was released by the director of the census.

On the final report Hope gains 79 in population over the complete preliminary count, which showed a total of 5,925. J. Warren Stevens, supervisor of the census for this district, with offices in Texarkana, conducted both counts, minor errors representing the small difference between the preliminary and revised totals. On the basis of the preliminary count it was regarded fairly certain a month ago that the revised figures would show Hope's total population above 6,000.

The new figure leaves this city unchanged in its relation to other Arkansas cities. Hope still ranks 13th in the state. Only two cities are rated above her, in the 5,000 to 10,000 class, these being Fayetteville, with a total of 7,397, and Camden, with a population of 7,258.

25.3 Per Cent Gain
The 1930 figure of 6,004 compares with a 1920 census figure of 4,790—a gain of 25.3 per cent for Hope.

Hope's increase over the 10-year period was real, and not merely by annexation. Its township, DeRoane, gained nearly the same number of persons, the population of this district increasing from 9,038 to 9,801.

Byrd's Next Trip Remains Secret

Conquer Admits That He Will Make a New Voyage Soon

ALBANY, N. Y., July 10.—(UPI)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd is planning another adventurous trip, but where his next expedition will take him is a secret known only to him and possibly a few friends.

The noted explorer, conqueror of the north and south poles by air, admitted here recently he had in mind a new expedition but said he was not in a position to disclose any details or make any definite announcement.

"I always plan my next expedition on the way from the last," Byrd said, "but I am not yet in a position to announce it. You know, we have a deficit from this trip (Antarctic expedition) to meet first."

"Exploration trips always have resulted in a deficit. They are not money making propositions. Amundsen, the greatest explorer at the time of his death, always faced a deficit after his trips."

The Spirit of Progress is a famous statue on the original Montgomery Ward & Co. Building, Michigan Boulevard, Chicago. For generations it has been a symbol of leadership and inspiration for this great world-wide organization.

The Spirit of Progress Guides Montgomery Ward & Co.

Starting as the original mail order house and now operating the world's largest general merchandise chain, we continue to strive to realize the ideals of leadership which our symbol represents 18,000,000 people will see this announcement in more than 650 of the nation's leading newspapers.

You are personally interested in this important message and will be well repaid for the time you take to read every word.

Leadership demands action. A great deal has been said and written about unemployment and poor business. You read much about the reduced purchasing power of the average citizen—but what about his paying power?

Despite the unemployment, the present average weekly payroll of America is estimated at $840,000,000. In addition, the registered savings accounts total over twenty-seven billion dollars and are steadily increasing. Yes, there is ample paying power. But we believe that general business will improve only when the buying public are satisfied that prices to them (and that means to you), reflect the new low commodity levels.

In our judgment, commodity prices are scraping bottom today. We do not say that there will not be some further declines, but broadly speaking, current prices are the lowest in years, in some cases the lowest in 15 to 20 years.

Leadership Demands Action

Montgomery Ward & Co. is placing orders for millions of dollars worth of merchandise at these new low commodity levels. There are 120,000,000 American people to be fed, clothed, sheltered and entertained; and regardless of unemployment, poor export business, low agricultural prices, etc., the requirements of the American nation total a huge sum.

New Fall Prices Now

For many years it has been the custom of Montgomery Ward & Co. to make Fall prices effective when our Fall and Winter Catalogue is distributed about September 1st.

Months ago we cut prices. During the past 60 days there have been further declines in the cost prices of many items of merchandise—and all these low prices we are making effective at once—so that as far as Montgomery Ward & Co. customers are concerned, they need not wait for lower prices. Ward's prices are down NOW to the new commodity levels.

How Do You Judge a Low Price?

Only by the dependable quality you receive.

There is nothing cheap about Montgomery Ward & Co. merchandise. We have never sacrificed quality to make low prices, and despite the surprising savings that are possible on thousands of different articles which we sell through our catalogues and Retail Stores, you can buy from us with complete confidence.

There is a good deal in the papers now about the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. They used more than 7,000 articles selected from our regular stocks and they used them under conditions where quality and dependability meant life itself. Their verdict was radioed to us in March from Dunedin, New Zealand, "Satisfactory in all respects."

Our method of doing business can be stated in one phrase—

"You Must Be Satisfied"

The goods you buy from us must be "satisfactory in all respects." Leadership demands action. In making our Fall prices effective now, we are doing something definite to establish public confidence in new price levels and we are taking this constructive step to stimulate the use of your buying power.

For years we have recognized the conveniences and advantage of the Time Payment method. We are selling annually many millions of dollars of goods on Easy Payments. Basically the American Public is honest, meets its just obligations. On that belief we have never hesitated to sell on time. Over a period of many years, our experience has been thoroughly satisfactory and our bad debt losses negligible.

Now, for the first time in the history of American merchandising, a national institution offers this Time Payment opportunity

Beginning today and continuing until September 15, Montgomery Ward & Co. will sell you any merchandise shown in its catalogues or Retail Stores (excepting groceries) on the Easy Payment Plan, provided your order totals $25 or more

We have begun the mailing of 10,000,000 announcements to our customer list, giving full details. Visit the Ward Store in your neighborhood for complete information. We know this offer will bring us additional business. It will make us new friends. It will acquaint great numbers of people with the dependable quality and the low prices that are the foundation of our business.

We consider it a constructive move (one of the very few that have been made thus far) to stimulate consumer buying. Even a small upturn in demand will start orders to factories, wheels turning, unemployment lessening and a resultant upward trend to our general business structure and prosperity.

Many will praise us for this move, some will criticize us. I hope that other institutions, large and small, will follow with their constructive plans to persuade the public to use its paying power. In his first daily newspaper article of July 1st, Calvin Coolidge said,

"My countrymen, it is time to stop criticizing and quarreling and begin sympathizing and helping."

Prices based on the new low commodity levels, quality goods of absolute dependability, our policy of "You must be Satisfied" and now this great 60-day Easy Payment opportunity. Surely these combine to bring you economy, convenience and satisfaction in your buying.

Yours sincerely,

George B. Everett
President.

Worth All It Costs

IT IS estimated that 30,000,000 persons in the United States have enjoyed or will enjoy vacations averaging two weeks and that the total expenditure amounts to $3,000,000,000. That so many could afford to devote so much money to a matter largely of pleasure is a testimonial to the widespread prosperity which prevails. Railroad traffic is above the average and summer resorts are having a highly profitable season. Tourist camps have been filled to overflowing. The national parks have had more visitors than ever before. All these things are taken into account in reaching the estimate, which, of course, is nothing more than approximate, since there can be no such goal as accuracy in such a matter.

That so many are able to knock off from the regular vocation and seek relaxation shows that as a people we are learning the value of a bit of leisure. We have a class which devotes itself chiefly to leisure, but the vacations referred to are those who for the main part of the year are busily employed. The number of vacationists is all the more noteworthy since it must have included the farmers in but a small proportion and they are more numerous than any other class. The summer is the farmer's busy season and his leisure, if he has any, comes at other times. Next winter many of the tillers of the soil will hitch up the car and journey southward for a few weeks and will augment the numbers of the vacationists considered by the year.

The vacation idea calls for the employment of many thousands who cater to the wants of vacationists. This involves business of vast magnitude in itself and it has wide ramifications. What is one's period of leisure is another's time of activity. All of us could not take vacations at once. Somebody has to stay on the job to provide for the vacationists—and take in the money the vacationists have to spend. And the latter feature is attended to with promptness.

County Fair Season

THE county fair season will soon be here again, and thoughts of the county fair invariably are conducive of pleasant recollections. The county fair originally was designed to make urgent and wholesome appeal to the agriculturists and in some sections of the state perhaps it still does strike the imagination of the agrarian, but in more recent years, it is impressive to observe, there has been a decided change both in the manner of conducting these fairs and in their character.

City people have come to be the largest patrons of these institutions, though it is almost certain that the citizenship of the larger communities are drawn hither largely by curiosity rather than because they expect to come into more intimate contact with the farmer and his problems.

There are many evidences that we need to reconstruct our country fair programs in this commonwealth, in order the better to educate the man in the city with the affairs of his cousin on the farm. The county fair could serve a most useful and educational purpose if directors were inclined to stimulate a little more serious interest on the part of city people in the affairs of the great agricultural producing sections. This, manifestly, was the original intention of the county fair. There was a time when farm exhibits invariably drew thousands and public discussions about the stock exhibits and elsewhere resulted in a better understanding and knowledge among the farmers.

In an attempt to please both the farmer and the city resident fair boards have overlooked in a good many cases real needs which exist for getting back to "first principles." When the time arrives, it goes without saying that it will mark an advanced step in making the county fair a useful and important part in our life as a great producing state.

Ocean Flights Still Thrill

IT may be quite true, as the critics have been insisting, that ocean airplane flights are no longer useful to aviation because they neither prove nor reveal anything that is not known already; but there is still a big thrill in them.

The flight of the Southern Cros has been quite as spectacular as any of them. No one, picking up an afternoon paper and tracing the plane's progress over the perilous wastes by the brief press association bulletins, could fail to be moved. Nor could anyone read Kingsford-Smith's account of the flight without intense interest.

Trans-oceanic airplane flights may, as they say, be mere stunts, too risky to be worth while; but they are, after all high adventure. The Southern Cross and her crew have given us a moment of release from the monotony of everyday. We owe them a debt of gratitude.—Paragould Press.

Because they liked the way she did things as vice president of the freshmen class and as president of the sophomore, students at Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C., named pretty Irene Thomas, above, president of the student government. Irene lives in Rocky Mount.

The boys and girls on the farms are given additional opportunities through 4-H club work to make money, develop traits of leadership, and to gain a new knowledge of farming as a vocation.

The county extension agents discovered many excellent practices on farms and in homes in the county which they carry to others in the county and to county agents in other counties. This is in addition to that from the experiment stations and the United States Department of Agriculture.

All of the counties in Arkansas except eight are maintaining one or more extension workers and are gaining these advantages. If all of the counties had this service, there would be a larger development as a result of the direct effects of extension work, and Arkansas would gain a reputation for progressiveness that would be helpful to further progress. All counties in Arkansas are agricultural, and farm people in all counties can benefit greatly from this service.

Good Buildings For Livestock

Comfortable Quarters Should Be Maintained on All Farms

The livestock industry of Arkansas has become of sufficient importance and magnitude that farmers are beginning to equip their farms with more suitable buildings to house their livestock. New barns are being built all over the state. Some of these barns are costing quite a sum of money and are being built for the purpose of housing the animals in a more comfortable and safe manner. This is due to the fact that those making the plans are not familiar with good barn construction.

A good livestock building should be planned to insure comfortable and safe housing of the animals; should be arranged so that the space in the building is all economically used; and should be so arranged that the farmer can do the chores quickly, safely and without too much walking and feed carrying.

The location of the buildings with respect to drainage, other farm buildings, and conveniences to lots and pastures, is a very important consideration. The selection of material and general type of construction with a view of keeping down first cost and later upkeep is also very important.

The subject of livestock buildings will be thoroughly discussed during Farmers' Week at Fayetteville this summer. One afternoon program is devoted to the subject. This program will be on the afternoon of August 5 and is put on jointly by the animal industry and agricultural engineering departments of the College of Agriculture University of Arkansas.

Club Boys Produce Yields at Low Cost

Each Year More Boys Enter the 4-H Club Demonstrations

Interest in large yields per acre of field crops continues to grow. Each year a greater number of 4-H club boys enter the cotton and corn yield contests, states J. E. McKell, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, Extension Service.

In 5 counties in northeast Arkansas there are 772 boys growing an acre of cotton each and 301 boys growing an acre of corn each with the one idea of getting the largest possible yield. These acres are being handled under the supervision of the county agents with the idea of making a satisfactory profit over the cost of production.

The fertilizer being used is only that which has been found by experiment to be the best for the crops. In 1929 the 139 club boys in the cotton contest produced cotton at an average cost of seven cents a pound. That means that much of the cotton was produced at a much lower cost, while some at a much higher cost where the yields were low. Through the club boys of the state both cotton and corn production is

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The close of every session of Congress demonstrates all over again and more clearly than ever the fact that there is no real difference between the two major political parties, that one is the party in power and the other the opposition and that when they actually line up against each other there is nothing discernible in the situation except a row between the "ins" and the "outs."

The Republican party has been normally in and the Democratic party normally out. So when an election year comes along and jobs are at stake and the two factions of the politicians' union start slamming away at each other the Republicans begin taking credit for all the good things that have happened to the country and forgetting all the bad things. And the Democrats, of course, forget all the good things and harp on all the bad things as they point accusingly at the Republicans.

Defenders and Attackers
As far as national politics are concerned, there isn't much more to it than that. The party in power boasts and defends itself; the party out of power sneers and condemns. The Republican party is attacked not because it stands for anything in particular, but for the way it does things when in power—the way it revamps the tariff, the way it enforces or doesn't enforce prohibition, the way it helps or doesn't help the farmers, the way it stimulates or doesn't stimulate business and employment.

Each party claims certain fine, high-sounding principles for its own, but neither has an honest, clear-cut or fundamental issue. Once there was a rather common popular impression that a real cleavage existed between the two parties on the question of the protective tariff. The Republicans were supposed to be high tariff and the Democrats low tariff. And it is true that the Democrats have seized on the Hawley-Smoot tariff act as the big issue in the congressional campaign of this year.

But where were the Democrats in 1928? Straddling the fence, and assuring the country that they, too, believed in the protective tariff. Promising the country, in effect, that the Republican rates of duty as fixed in the Fordney-McCumber act of 1922 were good enough for them, and that no one need fear a Democratic assault on the tariff walls in case the nation chose a Democratic administration.

Candidate Al Smith's position was that the tariff must be taken out of politics and that a scientific, non-partisan tariff commission could do just that. Well, today President Hoover and other Republicans are echoing the same thought and Mr. Hoover has said that the flexible provision in the new tariff law can be used to take the tariff out of politics.

The Republican spokesmen are forced to take credit or blame for the new tariff, but again and again they have been trying to make the Democrats share it. They are able to point out that all but one Democrat in the Senate voted for one duty increase or more and against various decreases and the Democratic record in the House is about the same. Five Democratic votes passed the bill in the Senate.

This insect invaded the United States about 25 years ago was to employ men known as county agents to carry information to cotton growers on methods of growing cotton when boll weevils were present.

The duties of the county agents were soon increased to include many other services to the farmer, and the service extended to women and girls through county home demonstration agents. County agents and county home demonstration agents now are considered necessary in every county where there is a pride in, or desire for, the improvement of farms and farm homes in the county, states T. Roy Reid, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, Extension Service.

The main duties of the county agents and county home demonstration agents are to conduct demonstrations and disseminate information from these that will add to the incomes of farmers and increase the satisfaction of farm life in the counties where they work. The results of this type of work have been so generally satisfactory that many less direct helps to the development of the agriculture of a county have become evident as a result of the maintenance of these extension agents in a county.

Farm home-seekers, who are most desirable, usually want to talk with the county agent before purchasing land and want to know that they may have the assistance of county extension agents in adapting their farming system to the new conditions. This makes land in counties where county agents are more salable and attractive to more progressive types of farmers, who may wish to move from other sections.

Farm loans are made in some cases only where the farmer is protecting the land against erosion and is following a proper system of crop and livestock production. The help of a county agent has been an influence in obtaining such loans in many cases.

In Crittenden county 146 bushels of corn were produced on one acre. With such results from club members the parents and adult farmers could well adopt the methods used by the young folks. Mr. McKell comments.

Ouachita Mountains In Arkansas Run East and West

LITTLE ROCK, July 10.—The Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce believes someone put one over on Ripley, of Bellevue, or not fame when Ripley's daily exhibit of oddities a few days ago listed the Ouachita mountain range, in Utah, as the only range in the Western Hemisphere running east and west. At any rate, the Chamber called Mr. Ripley's attention to the Ouachita mountains of Arkansas because they, to run east and west.

Many persons, and strange to say they include many Arkansians, are under the impression that the Ouachitas are merely foothills of the Ozarks, says the Chamber. So general was this opinion some years ago even many maps listed the Ouachitas as the Ozarks.

French Seek to Light Mediterranean Road

PARIS, July 10.—(UP)—French authorities at the Riviera have decided to try out a project of so-called axial lighting of the roads to stimulate night riding along the beautiful road that skirts the Mediterranean from Menton to Grasse. The road will be flooded from overhead cross beams at 30-yard intervals on the road side. The effect will be that of an illuminated pergola, and the engineers are seeking a model for the structure which will not interfere with the beauty of the road by day.

90-Year Inventor Has Hobby in Work

Adrian C. Cook Has Patented Eighty Seven Inventions

CHICAGO, July 10.—(UP)—Adrian C. Cook, who at the age of 90 has patented 87 inventions, and is still at it, puts in a full day's work six days a week—and calls it his "hobby." The man who invented the "squeeze," the rubber appliance for cleaning windows, and who has just completed a device for peeling grapefruit and oranges, has spent the greater part of his life making articles designed to lighten the work of the home. His inventions range in size from a combination salt and pepper shaker to a broad wheeled farm cart. His latest invention is a water wheel, which he claims will furnish enough power to generate sufficient electricity for running farm machinery and lighting.

Age has proved no barrier to Cooke's capacity for work. His good health, he claims, is hereditary; and points out that his father lived to 80; his mother to 107, and her father died at the age of 114 years. Cooke eats, drinks and works in moderation, and says that he has smoked since he was 12. A month ago he walked 17 miles to his home when his automobile stalled, and did not mind the hike at all.

Stab Wounds Found In Candidate's Body

Coroner Withholds Verdict in Death of District Candidate

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., July 10.—(AP)—An autopsy performed on the body of Earl R. Swanger, 37, candidate for district attorney, found beneath his wrecked automobile under the Harp creek bridge, revealed three stab wounds, officers announced Wednesday.

Dr. J. L. Martin, who conducted the investigation, said one of the wounds was in the chest, one above the collar bone and one on the shoulder. He said a large blood vessel had been severed by one of the cuts and that Swanger had bled profusely inwardly. Mr. Martin said the wounds could have caused Swanger's death.

The coroner's verdict was withheld pending a further investigation in connection with Swanger's death.

Swanger, who was formerly county attorney of Leon county, had been electioneering in Trinity county and was enroute home when he was killed, officers believed. At first, it was thought his car had plunged from the bridge accidentally.

Chef Braves Fire Death To Save Pork Roast

MODESTO, Calif., July 10.—(UP)—Among the unsung heroes it appears should be listed the name of Lester Bunch, restaurant chef. Bunch's devotion to his cookery nearly cost him his life when his kitchen caught fire here.

His stove "back-fired," and Bunch called the fire department. And then, despite flame and smoke, he dashed back into his kitchen to rescue a pork roast that was the cause of the trouble.

Firemen found him unconscious besides his stove. When revived his first words were: "Was the roast burned?"

Party Conference Marks Time Over Fate of Chairman

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The Republican conference slated to deal with Claudius Huston's bitter refusal to resign as chairman of the Republican National Committee deferred action today, and took up routine matters instead.

Although the eight officials and their co-workers in the Republican party were reported unanimous in their determination to remove Mr. Huston as the party organization head, they had nothing to say for publication.

President Hoover met two of the members both before and after the meeting. Mr. Huston, meeting reporters in his office, smilingly told them: "I will have a statement to make late today. My statements as reported in this morning's newspapers are correct." What he referred to was an interview in which he told newspaper men yesterday that he would not resign his office unless President Hoover personally requested that he do so.

Man Alive Despite 150 Foot Fall Here

Breaks Thighs, Arms, Has Internal Injuries and Fractured Skull

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 10.—(AP)—Miraculously surviving a 150 foot plunge, from the twelfth story window of the veterans bureau, Bernard Getz, world war veteran may live.

Getz, a city fireman on sick leave Wednesday, hurled himself from the window landing on top of a parked truck. The body of the man went through the top of the truck and his head buried into the gasoline tank under the seat. The first report after he was taken to the hospital was that he was dead. Examination disclosed, however, that he was suffering from two broken thighs, two broken arms, internal injuries and his skull is believed to have been fractured.

The veteran had an engagement to meet a doctor in the offices of the building and when he walked in the front offices of the building Wednesday the office force scarcely noticed him, until they saw his form leave the window.

The man landed on top of the truck parked at the curb only a few feet from the morning shopping crowd on the sidewalk of Pardo street.

In order to train men to know their product and to be of service in their local towns and communities The Arkansas Agricultural Extension Service is sponsoring a Cotton Classing School in Little Rock during the period July 21 to August 1.

The cotton classing school has been arranged to give instructions in grading and stapling of cotton and a general knowledge of the business of buying and selling cotton. The instruction will be divided into three parts which includes (1) grading and stapling, (2) special lectures on cotton marketing, and (3) special lectures on bills of lading, drafts, invoices, and other practical phases in marketing cotton.

Upon completion of the course, each student will have covered the problems designed for local receivers of the new Mid-South Cotton Growers' Association. Those who will give instruction in the school are Dr. C. O. Brannen, E. B. Whitaker, J. O. Wade, Martin Nelson, all from the College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas, and representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture and Federal Farm Board.

Further information regarding the school will be furnished by applying to Lynn Smith, county agent, or Grover C. Kinkaid, assistant agent.

Deputy Constable Held For Murder Raid

BARBOURSVILLE, Ky., July 10.—(UP)—Deputy Constable Lee Helton of Knox county was charged with murder Wednesday in connection with the death of Homer Mackey, 25, of Wilton, who was shot during a liquor raid.

Mackey was fleeing from his home when one of four officers, said to have been Helton, fired on him, according to county officials. A half pint of alleged whisky was found on his person but none was found in his home, officers said.

Helton was held without charges awaiting outcome of shotgun wounds he admitted inflicting Tuesday upon Tom Brock, 38. Officers said differences had existed between the two men for some time.

Arkansas Man Jailed After Shooting Other

NEWPORT, Ark., July 10.—(AP)—Frank Benton, 45, was in jail here Wednesday without charges awaiting outcome of shotgun wounds he admitted inflicting Tuesday upon Tom Brock, 38. Officers said differences had existed between the two men for some time.

Brock was shot from ambush as he was walking home late Tuesday. He was removed to Newport in an ambulance. Benton later appeared at the home of a neighbor, who reported to officers that Benton said he had killed Brock.

Shirley's Generosity

JACK SHIRLEY'S offer to give Max Schmelling 37½ per cent of the gate for a return bout in September and to pay $50,000 to Arthur Buehler, the German's former manager, appears to be a generous request.

Shirley would take 12½ per cent and it might appear on the face of it that Jack was giving Buehler a bust on the chin. However, let us suppose a return bout would draw $150,000. That's purely a supposition, of course, and an optimistic one, at that. But with such a gate, Shirley would draw about $40,000. After he paid Buehler he would have $40,000. His expenses in training would cost him perhaps $15,000. After splitting one-third of the net with his manager, he would have left approximately $40,000.

When you get right down to the figures, Jack wouldn't be doing so badly after all.

Misplaced Strategy

JOHN MCGRAW has taken it on the chin several times, in a strategic way. In a recent doubleheader with the Braves, the Giants' master mind made one very bad guess involving the ability of young Wally Berger, the Braves' sensational recruit.

It was the eighth inning, there were two Braves on bases and two out. Berger was at bat and Genevick was pitching. In view of the rough way Berger had performed against the Giants in previous games, it looked to be the better strategy to give the young man a base on balls. The Braves were three runs behind and with the bases filled, there would have been a play at every base.

McGraw, however, probably figuring that lightning doesn't hit twice in the same place, ordered Genevick to pitch to Berger. Just to loosen him up. Genevick zinged a fast one close to Wally's head. Then he pitched on the theory that a fast one down the middle would get by. It did get by. It got by everybody, sailing right out of the

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

JIMMY JOHNSTON, the 1929 amateur champion, has a great chance in this year's open at Interlachen. Jimmy, who lives in nearby St. Paul, has played Interlachen often and knows how to play out of the bunkers that surround almost every one of Interlachen's beautiful greens.

Willie Kidd, Interlachen professional, says that No. 2 hole will give plenty of the boys trouble.

The green is severely bunkered and narrow and you reach it after shooting 370 yards along a narrow ribbon of fairway that is well-trapped. . . . Jock Hendry, Town and Country's pro, who won the Minnesota Open title at Interlachen last August, says 238 will win the marbles there easily. . . . The yardage at Interlachen is 6672 and par is 72.

park. And the score was tied. Later the Braves went on to win.

Braves Keep Coming

KEEP AN EYE on the march of the Boston Braves. Judge Emil Fuchs has spent plenty of money to give the Hub a winner, and the Braves are looking stronger every day.

Third base has been something of a problem. Buster Chatham was bought from the Coast to strengthen that spot. Meanwhile Red Rolings has been putting up a nice game around the far corner, so nice a game that Buster had to wait a while to get his chance.

Lucky Bill McKechnie's fortune seems to be holding out. The former Pittsburgh-St. Louis pilot has brought the Braves out of the cellar into the sunshine. The Braves are being respected by everybody else in the league.

Texas Marriage Rule Hurts Sales

Decline In Texas Counties Shown By County Clerks

CLARKSVILLE, Tex., July 10.—The Texas marriage law is given credit for the big decline in marriage licenses that has occurred at Clarksville the first half of this year in comparison with the first half of 1929.

No legislation enacted in recent years has been more effective in driving business from the state, officials state, and no prospect of a change in the situation is apparent.

Hugo, Texarkana and Idabel are too convenient for couples wishing to be married to bother with the couples can wed in this state.

At the present rate the year's total in Red River county will fall below 100. In former years, when no legal restrictions were confronted, the number of licenses issued here averaged between 450 and 500 annually.

Wife—Are you sure you caught this fish. It smells awful strong. Hubby—Strong! I should say it was—it nearly pulled me overboard.

The bride and groom were giving their first dinner at home to friends. Not knowing how to carve the turkey the groom, upon the suggestion of his bride, had studied the diagrams in her cook book. But when the guests were all seated and the time came to cut the fowl the host was plainly at a loss to begin.

"Why don't you carve it, dear?" asked the wife, anxiously. "You know exactly how to do it." "Of course I do, my love," the man answered, "but I can't find any of the dotted lines."

"Oscar," said the bank manager, "There'll be a vacancy here soon and I'm thinking of giving your twin brother the job."

"My twin brother?" exclaimed Oscar.

"Yes, the one I saw watching the ball game yesterday while you were at your aunt's funeral," explained the manager.

"Oh-er-yes," said Oscar. "I—I remember! I'll go and hunt him up."

"Good!" said the manager. "And don't come back till you've found him."

New Dry Chief Says Law Will Be His Only Guide

BALTIMORE.—(AP)—A lawyer, a student, a writer and a bachelor is the new director of prohibition enforcement, Amos Waller Wright Woodcock.

Woodcock's social and family life is largely bound up with his old home at Salisbury, where his three sisters live. He seldom fails to visit there over the week end.

He maintains a bachelor apartment here but uses it little for entertaining. Many of his evenings he devotes to reading and study.

AMOS W.W. WOODCOCK.

cock—but above all he is a lawyer. United States district attorney for Maryland since 1922, he will be guided by the law alone, he says, as chief administrator of America's most argued legislation.

Woodcock's record in Maryland, which has no state enforcement law, made him acceptable to prohibition leaders, too, but he has made it clear in many addresses that he never would go beyond the law to obtain a conviction. He is personally dry.

Born Oct. 29, 1883, at Salisbury, Md., in 1903 he was given a bachelor of arts degree by St. John's college at Annapolis. There for six years he taught mathematics at St. John's and studied law at the University of Maryland, getting his degree in 1910. In 1912 he took his master's degree at Harvard.

He is a republican but not an ardent political worker.

Woodcock's war record tells something of the man.

Enlisting in 1917 he served in France as a member of Company 1, First Maryland infantry, and then successively as captain, major and lieutenant colonel in the 15th Infantry. He is now a lieutenant colonel in the National Guard and O. R. C.

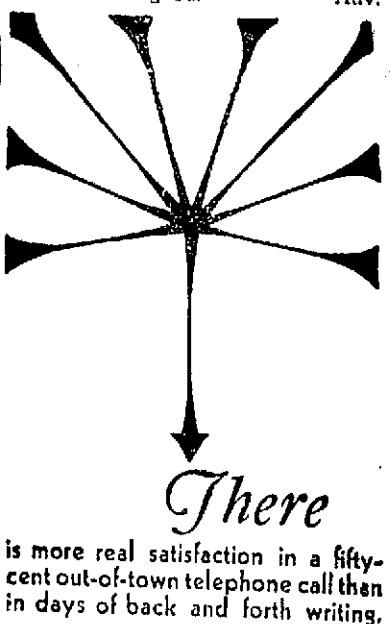

Most of his friends call him "Colonel" because of his military bearing, his war service and the fact that he is

Relief From Curse of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. John S. Gibson Drug Co. Adv.

Hunter Brothers Now Plan Flight Around U. S.

Not content with smashing the world's endurance record by keeping their second-hand airplane, City of Chicago, aloft for 23 days, these four Hunter brothers now plan a non-stop refueling flight around the borders of the United States just as soon as it can be arranged. The four musketeers of the air are shown here just after the endurance plane was brought to earth at Sky Harbor Airport, near Chicago. Left to right, are: Albert, John, Kenneth and Walter. Kenneth and John piloted the endurance ship; Albert and Walter, the supply ship.

DANCING JUDITH

by CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT, 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

JOIN HERE TODAY

GRANT, artist's model, ALAN STEYNE, painter, Alan loved by CHUMMY, Judith's roommate and friend. Chummy had loved Alan, and lost her when he went away. Steyne loved Judith. Judith that it is his duty to Chummy, whose memory stored when she sees him. Judith is studying dancing at the great GUARVENIUS, NUCB GIDEON, rich financier, wants to star her in a musical, although Steyne warns that Gideon's intentions are sinister. Guarvenius is killed. Judith goes on with her career. Chummy and Steyne are married at once.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

CHUMMY found it hard beyond belief to repeat her conversation with Judy to Alan. She wanted to tell him that Judy was very changed. She's so serious, Alan—you didn't know her. And you think who can look after herself, Clarissa?" the young girl asked.

"Oh, yes, of course she can. She says so."

"Then you don't think it necessary to postpone our wedding any longer?"

"No, Alan—not on that account. Steyne said nothing. There was another account. He knew that Alan had come to the point. It was the end of the first week in August. He had consulted the girl about the date of the wedding a day or two ago, and she had suggested the seventeenth, her birthday. It must be settled definitely now. There was no going back. Her preparations were made. He had none to make.

The time had come for him to settle his debt, to pay for that more than seven-year-old mistake. He nervously himself, and they discussed details. There was plenty of time to give orders for the other rooms at Gramercy Park to be prepared before they came back. They would write from abroad.

Perhaps Clarissa would pick up some Italian furniture. There were a small sitting room for her and another bedroom, and also a maid's room, to be arranged. Clarissa could think of no more ideal home.

"Before we go, Alan, we must make Judy spend a day with us. I'm still a little worried about her. You see, she's alone a great deal now, and Clara Jenks is so busy. Shall we go into the country and have a really nice day? I'll make her come."

"Yes," he agreed. "I'll hire a car—there's not room enough in mine."

"That will be lovely!" Chummy was radiant. Alan wondered at her selfishness. He wondered how she had ever come to believe that he loved her; and he wondered what in her secret heart she thought of him as a lover now.

"You will come, won't you, Judy?" Chummy asked, her eyes alight with affection, her whole being aglow with the thought of the wonderful life that was opening out before her. "Just one day before we start off, Alan and I!"

"Of course I'll come," Judy answered. "It sounds lovely. A whole day in the country, a motor car, a picnic lunch, and a dinner and a play to end up with! Why, sweet, I haven't done a single thing since dear old Guarvenius died!"

"Then it's tomorrow, if it's fine," said Chummy. "We'll call for you at 10 o'clock. If that isn't too early—we want to go a long way, into the real country."

"Splendid! And you're really to be married—when is it?"

"A week from today," said Clarissa, blushing.

"And I'm not asked to the wedding?"

Chummy went still redder. "It's Alan, Judy darling. He somehow doesn't want to ask anybody—not a soul."

"I quite understand," Judy said. "It's a thing's going to be quiet, it had much better be dead quiet. And you see, all the boys would want to come."

Judy was decidedly more like herself, and Clarissa, now about to enter the very innermost circle of happiness, was elated and transfused, so that she had no fears either for herself or for her beloved little friend.

The future of Judy was as rosy as her own. She would have the world at her feet, and then in time she would find love, and she would know that it is the greatest thing of all.

The day in the country was a great success. From Chummy's point of view, it was perfect.

They drove up to a far corner of Connecticut, where there was a sweeping line of great hills. They climbed one of them, leaving the car at the bottom, and Alan carrying the luncheon basket. On the top they were rewarded by a grand view and a sweet cool breeze. They ate and drank like school children. Judy was entranced by the wide, open spaces, and danced about like a child of ten.

Then they laid themselves down on the springy, scented turf, and smoked and talked—at least, Judy and Chummy talked. They strolled about and picked flowers, made a wide circle of the summit of the hills, and finally reached the car again, scrambling down a steep hillside, exhausted with laughter and exercise and fresh air.

JUDY was dropped at her rooms after six o'clock, and Alan and Chummy made an appointment to fetch her at half past seven for the dinner and theater, which were to make a fitting end to this gala day.

It was a little after half past seven when Steyne arrived.

Judy's room were on the top floor of the little house. The front sitting room was very scrappily furnished, but Judy had put up some little pictures that the boys at the cafe had given her, and there was a gayly striped Como rug thrown over the hard couch.

For more color was provided by a mass of exquisite flowers from hothouse and garden—a veritable medley of roses, carnations, lilies, and all the variegated splendor of the August border. They had evidently been thrown into basins and jugs pell-mell, and their scent made the atmosphere of the little room heavy with sweetness.

Judy came into the room, while Alan stood at the window, gazing down into the street.

"Where is Chummy?" she asked. "I expected to find her here," he answered. "We said half past seven. I came straight here. I am a little late."

"She won't be many minutes," Judy said carelessly. "What a lovely day we had! What do you think of my room?"

"Where do all these flowers come from?" he asked abruptly.

"I'm sure I don't know."

"Nonsense, Judy! Tell me, are they from Gideon?"

"I tell you I don't know; but I shouldn't be surprised. They come every few days, and there's no name. Only Mr. Gideon hasn't any country house, and aren't they garden flowers?"

"Some of them," said Steyne roughly. "Where is Gideon?"

"Abroad somewhere—in France, where he goes to drink waters to reduce his fat, I think."

"When did you last see him?"

"I haven't seen him since dear M. Guarvenius died," Judy answered.

"Didn't he try to see you?"

"He did, if you want to know; but I can't see why you—"

"Oh, yes, Judy, you can see!" said Steyne recklessly. "You know perfectly well that I'm madly jealous of the brute!"

"I think it's very strange of you to talk like that when you're going to be married in a day or two. Why do you want to spoil this nice day?"

STEYNE turned and looked at her. She wore a little black dress all but sleeveless, as was her wonted garb. Around her slender waist was a sash of fussy tulle, needing in a big bow at one side. She was very pale. The flowerlike face, the bright hair, and the curl of the lips were more than Alan could stand.

He had given her up—yes, he had given her up, once and for all, on that night in his studio, when she had begged him not to make it so hard for her, and he was going to marry Clarissa. Morley in a moment. But just now, at this moment, in her flower-scented room, after a day in Judy's company, drinking in her presence, absorbing all her maddening variety, he was not master of himself.

Just once more—once more!

He strode up to her and took her hands.

"Judy, this is goodbye," he said. "Yes," she breathed. "It is goodbye!"

"You are making me do it. It's your fault. You insist on my marrying Clarissa. You insist on my leaving you all alone in the world without any one to look after you."

"I can look after myself."

"Perhaps; but I want you to know that it's your fault, your doing. Goodbye, Judy!"

"Goodbye!"

She breathed faintly. Her pallor was ghastly. She swayed toward him, and the next moment she was in his arms.

"Don't forget," he said fiercely. "You are making me do this. I love you and you love me. I don't love Clarissa. I know I ought to tell her the truth. You won't let me. Whatever happens, it's your fault!"

"Oh, don't—don't!" she murmured, on the point of collapse.

Their lips met. All the world was forgotten in that agonizing farwell.

"Goodbye, Judy—goodbye!"

"Goodbye, Alan—oh, dear, dear love, goodbye!"

Neither of them noticed that the door was pushed open an inch or two. Alan did not know that he had left it ajar; nor were they aware that Clarissa was standing there in the doorway, her lovely face set into a mask of incredulous wonder, her golden-brown eyes half closed, as if in an instinctive effort not to see.

SOME five minutes later Clarissa Morley slowly descended the stairs. She had descended them swiftly and silently, and stood at the bottom like a graven image, with her hands clenched at her side.

What gave her strength to play the part she did she never knew. This time she rapped at the door and called out Judy's name. She found Judy and Alan waiting for her. Judy was laughing at something Alan had just said. Steyne gave her a smile of cordial welcome.

"Late, Clarissa!" he exclaimed. "Yes, I know," she answered.

She wondered in an impersonal way what they thought of her voice, her face, her whole bearing—those two who had just been in each other's arms, bidding each other goodbye eternally, with tears and anguish, with passionate despair—those two whom she had seen, but who had not seen her. They played their parts well, too.

Life, after all, was a comedy. On with the show! A single broken leg will not stop a circus. Why should a single broken heart put a spoke in the great wheel of life?

They spent a merry evening, a fitting ending to a gala day.

Indian Mounds Are Excavated

Field Workers Spend Summer Vacations In Work

MADISON, Wis., July 10.—(UP)—Field workers of the Wisconsin Archaeological society who have located more than 11,600 Indian mounds since 1911 are continuing their explorations this summer.

Last year these field parties located 208 archaeological monuments and sites not previously recorded by the society.

Many animal shaped burial grounds, or effigy mounds, created by aboriginal man exists in this state. They are said to represent the clan symbols of Indians who died on the Wisconsin happy hunting grounds and are frequently in the shape of a bird, turtle, bear, panther or other animal. Remains buried in them reveal many facts regarding history and activities of their builders.

Included in the discoveries of last season were 75 Indian village and camp sites; 50 trails and river fords; 50 mounds; four spirit or sacred springs, four cooking or roasting pits, three native cooper workings, three cemeteries, two flint workshop sites, two solitary graves, two boulder mortars, two plots of garden beds, two caches or hoards of flint implements, one lead smelter, one quartzite quarry, one spirit stone (shrine), one trading post site, one pictograph rock, one Indian sugar bush, and one rock shelter.

Scientific exploration has been carried on in many of these mounds and their contents removed to state museums. A much larger number has been permanently preserved in public parks. Several are to be found on the University of Wisconsin campus.

Time Payment Is Offered By Ward

Radical Change in Policy Announced by Montgomery Ward & Co.

Beginning today, as is announced elsewhere in this issue of The Star and in nearly 900 leading newspapers throughout the country, Montgomery Ward & Co. inaugurates one of the most unusual merchandising policies the country has ever seen. Announcements have been sent to the Company's ten million customers, telling them that from now until September 15, any item in the Company's catalogue or Retail Stores except groceries, will be sold on Ward's time payment plan.

Heretofore, the company has confined its time payment selling to such items as washing machines, furniture, stoves, furnaces, etc., and in the face of present business conditions with the general tightening of credit by most retailers, this action on the part of Montgomery Ward & Co., is a significant move.

George E. Everett, president of the company, in announcing the new policy, expresses the belief that there is plenty of money and purchasing power in America and that greater prosperity can be brought about by creating an inclination to buy on the part of the public. Mr. Everett points out that the average weekly payroll of America today in conservatively estimated at eight hundred and forty million dollars, that the registered savings accounts in the country total over twenty-seven billion dollars, and are steadily increasing.

He says, "Yes, there is ample buying power and we believe that general business will improve when the buying public is satisfied that retail prices reflect the lower commodity levels. In our judgment, commodity prices are scraping bottom today and Montgomery Ward & Co., has placed, and is placing orders for millions of dollars worth of merchandise at these new low levels. Months ago we cut prices accordingly, and again in the last sixty days have made further reductions on such merchandise as piece goods, work clothing, plumbing supplies, etc.

In explanation of the new plan of offering to sell all merchandise at new low prices and on the time payment plan, Mr. Everett says, "We consider it a constructive move (one of the very few that have been made thus far) to stimulate consumer buying. Even a small upturn in demand will start orders to factories, wheels turning, unemployment lessening and a resultant upward trend to our general business structure and prosperity."

"Many will praise us for this move. Some will criticize us. I hope that other institutions, large and small, will follow with their constructive methods to persuade the public to use its paying power. In his first article, issued June 30, Calvin Coolidge said, 'My countrymen, it is time to stop criticizing and quarreling and begin sympathizing and helping.'"

This latest move on the part of Montgomery Ward & Co., will be welcomed by business leaders and people everywhere. No doubt a move like this by Montgomery Ward & Co., with its far flung distributing organization of Mail Order Houses and Retail Stores in every part of the country, will have a decidedly uplifting effect on business prosperity.

A. S. Sheffer, manager, states that the new policy goes into effect in the local Ward store today.

Shamrock V Soon To Cross Ocean To Attempt To Win America's Cup

Shamrock V, which is to make in September what will probably be Sir Thomas Lipton's final attempt to capture America's Cup, soon is to start across the Atlantic with Capt. Ned Heard in command.

BELFAST, Ireland (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton, 80-year-old Irish sportsman, is ready for his fifth and probably last attempt to win the America's Cup. The $500 yachting trophy already has cost him some $2,500,000 of his private fortune.

His new challenger, "Shamrock V," as trim and frail as a thoroughbred racehorse, will start the dangerous voyage across the Atlantic ocean under her own sail, according to the rules of the contest, early in July.

The voyage will be as epic as the carry a towering Bermuda rig for the trophy race itself. There will be no wireless aboard the Shamrock V and she will carry a crew of 22.

A month's rations and fresh water will be carried.

ALL RUN DOWN KONJOLA CAME TO THE RESCUE

Former Sufferer Tells How New Medicine Ended Kidney and Stomach Troubles.

Sufferers want relief, not promises. Konjola, the new and different compound of 32 ingredients, is a medicine of deeds, not words, of performances, not promises. Consider, for example, the experience of Mrs. Effie Leslie, 541 North Sixth street, East St. Louis, who exclaims:

"I was run down, weak and nervous, and suffered from severe headaches and dizzy spells. I was continually taking laxatives, and my kidneys were so affected that I had to get up several times every night. My back ached continually, and indigestion caused much misery. I don't know what I should have done had it not been for Konjola, for six bottles freed me from all my ailments. Night rising is a thing of the past, and I feel better in many ways."

Isn't that the kind of medicine you want... one that makes good? Ask about Konjola; get the facts about the amazing record this medicine has made.

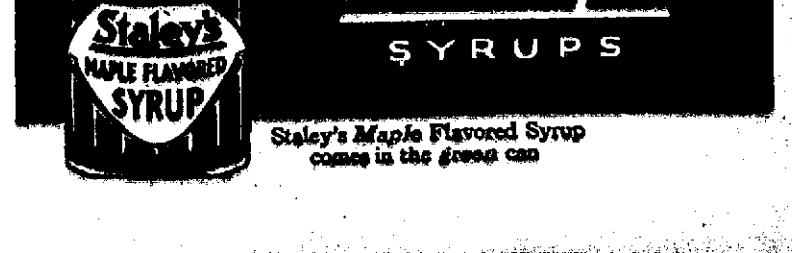

Konjola is sold in Hope, Ark., at Bryant's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
